

Maria Florencia ALCARAZ – Biography

María Florencia Alcaraz is a journalist with a degree in social communications from the Universidad Nacional de La Matanza (UNLaM). She is a founding member of the digital media LatFem.

She researches and works in the field of strategic political communication, with a particular focus on narratives for the expansion of rights. As a journalist and columnist, she has collaborated with various media: Tv Pública, Revista Anfibia, Cosecha Roja, Infojus Noticias, among others. She has worked at community radio stations and on FM Nacional Rock and El Destape. In 2018, she hosted the Youtube cycle of interviews with feminists, La olla.

In 2013, she received the Lola Mora Award from the Women's Department of the Autonomous City of Buenos Aires for her work in Infojus Noticias. In 2016, she received the stimulus prize awarded by the TEA School of Journalism for her work in digital journalism.